

HARD PUZZLE FAED IN THEATER JURIES

Immense Care to Be Taken in Selecting Citizens to Pass on Productions.

PANEL BEING FIGURED ON
One-third Likely to Be Women
—Meeting Is Called for Tuesday.

What will be the personnel of the panel of New Yorkers from which juries to censor the New York stage are to be drawn? Now that the voluntary public censorship plan has been adopted by all interests concerned, the question of the composition of the list of potential jurors has become of absorbing interest. Upon these citizens, whether 300 or 500 in number, will devolve one of the most unusual duties ever known, something quite outside ordinary experience, and immense care is to be taken in selecting a panel agreeable to all participating in the pact.

Owen Davis of the American Dramatists and Composers Society, who has been foremost in the movement for cleaner plays and in bringing about the agreement for voluntary censorship, said last night that the job selecting a list of talebears is recognized difficult and that he doubted if a completed list could be approved and presented to the Mayor before the close of the present theatrical season.

Work Slowly but Surely.

The main thing, Mr. Davis and his associates feel, is that the plan itself is to be put into operation, and they will not be precipitate about details. It is essential that a panel of citizens will have from the very start the confidence of theatrical producers, playwrights, actors, reform and welfare associations and of the public, and make several weeks of weighing and of elimination before such a panel can be had.

The basis for obtaining a satisfactory list which seems to be most in favor is club membership. Mr. Davis has suggested tentatively that fifty names be taken from the membership of such New York clubs as the University, City, Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Colony. This plan is approved also by Arthur Hopkins, chairman of the producing managers' censorship committee.

Mr. Hopkins said that while the constituency of the panel is naturally of immense importance to the producers, since it is their business that is to be censored and since they have millions invested, they desired only to have intelligent and cultivated New Yorkers on the panel—both men and women with some knowledge of art, literature and the theater. Mr. Hopkins expressed confidence that the panel, as finally selected, would be agreeable to the associated interests.

Women on the Panel.

That women will compose a part of the panel, probably a third, is already indicated. Mrs. Herbert L. Clark, a Brooklyn, chairman of the social service commission of the Episcopal Church for the Diocese of Brooklyn, and who was largely responsible for bringing about an official censorship of the motion picture industry, suggested yesterday that women writers, especially women who write for newspapers, be named for the panel. It is her idea that such professional women are especially fitted in cultivation and breadth of judgment to pass upon the character of plays.

Mrs. Glover has already submitted a list to the Better Shows Movement, but she declined to mention any of the names. This attitude was taken by Owen Davis for the playwrights, Arthur Hopkins for the managers, Frank Gilmore for the Actors Equity Association and John S. Brown for the Better Shows Movement, all believing that it would be unwise to suggest names of citizens who might eventually be rejected.

It is likely that the conference will meet again on Tuesday to take up the work of forming a panel.

20 PAPER CONVENTIONS IN THIS CITY NEXT WEEK

More Than 1,000 Leaders in the Industry to Be Here.

Twenty conventions of paper manufacturers' associations are scheduled to be held in New York next week during the forty-fifth annual "Paper Week" of the American Paper and Pulp Association. In addition, the National Paper Trade Association, the organization of paper merchants, will hold its annual convention, all meetings of both organizations to be in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, bringing together 1,500 leaders in America's paper industry.

The association's convention proper will be held Thursday, April 13, but the affiliated organizations will begin their meetings on Monday and continue through Friday, with Thursday reserved for the general meeting.

Forestry and technical education will be the outstanding features of the convention program. The paper industry has led America's industries in a campaign for a national forestry policy, and has done extensive commercial reforestation on the North American continent. It has also gone deeply into the education of its men for production, more than $40,000 having been expended in preparing text book material to train men in the mills for advancement.

The relation of industry in general with the Federal Government and its bureaus will be discussed by many speakers, and the evening banquet of April 13 will be devoted to a discussion of this subject. The President of the Ohio, who made the speech in the last Republican national convention nominating Mr. Harding for President.

The technical, forestry and salesmen's groups will have special sessions, in addition to meetings of associations of manufacturers making the various grades of paper.

FRATERNITY MEN STUDYING.

Rankings at Columbia Show Improvement Under New Scheme.

Greek letter fraternities at Columbia have established study hours and the scholastic standing of their members is showing marked improvement, says Dean Herbert B. Hawken. Whereas only two fraternities were rated "C plus" or higher in the last report, at present nine fraternities have that standing; three are rated "B minus" and two "B."

Many fraternity students at Columbia are in professional schools and are not included in the report.

BOYS BETTER FED IN U. S.

London, April 1.—Boys in America are far better fed than English lads, declares W. B. Close, former president of the Cambridge University Boat Club, in a discussion on the feeding of school-boys. Mr. Close also asserts that the average man in the United States and Canada is taller and bigger than the average Englishman.

WASHINGTON IN PRAISING MEN DIDN'T THINK OF BONUS

Letter, Owned by Park Benjamin, Written in 1782, at Newburgh, Tells of Satisfaction of Soldiers in Doing
Noble Duty for One's Country.

A letter written by George Washington on Christmas Eve, 1782, on the subject of what ex-service men should expect in the way of reward from their country is owned by Miss Anna Benjamin, daughter of Park Benjamin, Gen. Washington wrote it immediately upon his return to his headquarters at Newburgh after his farewell speech at Fraunces Tavern in New York city.

The letter came into Park Benjamin's possession thirty-one years ago, and he kept it as one of his most valued possessions until three years ago, when he took his daughter, Miss Anna Benjamin, who had been brought up in Italy, for her first visit to Mt. Vernon. Her enthusiasm led him to make a gift to her of the Washington autographed document.

It is written to one Col. R. Butler, who, Mr. Benjamin says, was one of the active "idle" of the time for material compensation for both officers and men among the barbed, ragged and mutiny struck element of the American army that had successfully fought the Revolution.

Gen. Washington's letter follows: "Dear Sir, I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 17th inst. has been duly received. Agreeably to your request I enclose Discharges for the Men you have mentioned by name whenever there are any other instances in which you think the good of the service will be promoted by similar exchanges, I shall not hesitate to give my assent thereto."

"At the same time, I am very happy to hear you are to continue in Service. I am extremely distressed with a consideration of the disagreeable feelings and prospects of many of the brave Officers, from whose zeal, experience and ability the Public has derived such essential Services, and who are now to bid adieu to their military connexions. Altho it may not be in the power of our Country and the present age to do ample justice to those gallant Officers and Men who have composed the American Army, and by their bravery and perseverance effected the Independence of this vast Continent; yet a pleasing consciousness of having been instrumental in producing so great an event, and a reflection that the unalloyed sweat and blood of the brave have been the cause of the freedom of those who have shared so freely in the fatigues and dangers of procuring these inestimable blessings for others, will give them the highest esteem."

I am Dear Sir, Your most obedt. Servt. G. Washington.

Col. R. Butler, Mr. Benjamin said yesterday: "This letter shows very clearly the kind of reward that George Washington believed should be given to those who have sacrificed their country's hardships that have not since been paralleled."

LOUVAIN MEMORIAL MODERN MINERVAS DRIVE ON IN NAVY DEFEND ROUGH GUY

Liberty Pillar in Honor of Dead: Campaign Opens
Armor and Fire Shafts of in Schools.

The American Navy will commemorate its dead in the world war on a pillar in the covered arcade and vestibule in the Louvain library. It is expected that the American army will inscribe the names of its war dead on a matching pillar, according to plans announced last night by the National Committee of the United States for the Restoration of the University of Louvain.

Rear Admiral Goodrich calls attention to the appeal for contributions in The Army and Navy Journal and The Army and Navy Register. It being the amount asked from each graduate, and says "that our alma mater may secure an honorable place in the new library of Louvain to commemorate those March sons who gave their lives in the great war."

Pennants and the colors of American schools and colleges will hang over the bookshelves in the library's main reading room. The names of America's great universities and colleges, more than 700 of which will cooperate in the restoration of the Louvain library, will be inscribed on other pillars and shields in the arcade.

To-morrow simultaneously in America and abroad the restoration of the Louvain library movement will be begun. Carrying the plan to restore the library to the schools here follows the collection taken in the schools of France under M. Berard, Minister of Public Instruction in France. Under M. Berard's direction 37,000 francs were collected, every school child giving one cent. The $100,000 already contributed by the American people has been used for obtaining a site for the library and the amount being used for the construction of the rear of the building where the books are to be stored.

A mass meeting will be held at Columbia University on Tuesday, when students in Columbia, Barnard and Teachers' College will hear an address by President Nicholas Murray Butler, after which they will begin their intensive work.

TWELVE POETS TO READ THEIR NEWEST WORKS

Poetry Evening Arranged by Columbia Institute.

Twelve Columbia poets will take part in the third annual poetry evening of the Columbia Institute of Arts and Sciences on Wednesday, April 5. It was announced at the university yesterday. Prof. John Erskine of the Columbia English department, who preside at the affair in Horace Mann Auditorium, 120th street and Broadway.

The poets, who will read original poems, are members of the Board of the Columbia Poetry Guild. David P. Senter of 601 West 112th street, a wounded veteran, who has received the John G. Knopf publication prize for the best manuscript submitted by a Columbia student during the year, will take part.

Charles M. Purdy of North Portland, Ore., chairman of the Board of the Columbia Poetry Guild, and others are Mortimer J. Adler of 354 Broadway, John De Mille, Jo. Felsch, Trenton, N. J., Burnett S. Ivey, Jacksonville, Fla.; Paul L. McPharlin, Detroit; H. M. Robinson, Malden, Mass.; Charles A. Wagner, 178 East 101st street; Daniel T. Walden, Hackensack, and Louis Zukofsky, 57 East 111th street.

TALKS ON ADVERTISING FOR MEN AT PRINCETON

Candidates for Jobs on College Papers to Attend.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. PRINCETON, April 1.—For the purpose of giving instruction to candidates for the business boards of the Princeton Tiger, the undergraduate publication, and the Daily Princetonian, the campus newspaper, a novel and practical series of lectures on the art and business of advertising has been arranged. In addition the Princeton Pictorial is urging its candidates to attend and many undergraduates who are intending to go into the advertising business upon graduation are also attending, so that the class room in McCosh, where these talks are given, is well filled on this occasion.

The moving spirit in this enterprise was F. Le Moyne Page, business manager of the Tiger, and he in conjunction with Roy S. Durstine, Princeton, 1908, arranged for the course. The first talk was delivered by Mr. Durstine on March 2 and the second by Richard S. Walsh, ex-president of the Art Directors' Club on "Art in Advertising." William T. Sullivan will give a sketch of the financial side of advertising on April 12. The other lecturers will be B. Chapman on "Connections With the Advertiser" and J. A. Richards on "Research in Advertising."

PARENTS' TRAGIC END Husband Died With Wife Caught in Tracks From Onrushing Train.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. ALBANY, April 1.—Lyman Tanner has just celebrated his sixtieth birthday. His thirty-year-old sister, Helen, who full charge of the arrangements, and several children of the neighborhood of their aunt, Mrs. Josephine Cassidy of 714 Clinton avenue, complete the guests. But there was one absentee, William Tanner, Lyman's twin brother, who died last July of pneumonia. It was the first birthday Lyman had celebrated without him.

The little fellow romped and played and ate his ice cream with the others, but frequently he was found sitting by himself. When his aunt asked him if he were ill he told her he was thinking of last year's birthday.

Lyman and Helen are the children of Mr. and Mrs. William Pittz Tanner, who met a tragic death together September 1, 1919, in Chicago, where they lived. Mrs. Tanner's foot had become caught in a railroad track. The husband frantically tried to extricate her, and falling went to his death with her under the onrushing train. The three children were left orphans. The manner of their parents' death attracted widespread attention. Wealthy people all over the country offered to adopt them, and funds were raised for their care by newspapers and organizations. Among the newspapers which helped to enlarge these funds were THE NEW YORK HERALD and THE SUN.

All of these contributions, except those to the Chicago Tribune, were turned to the Chicago Tribune, which had insurance policy and the estate of Mr. Tanner to a trust fund and placed in the hands of the Foreman Brothers Banking Company of Chicago. Mrs. Cassidy, who took charge of the children immediately after their parents' death, now receives $7 a week for each child from this fund and between $100 and $200 a year from the Chicago Tribune fund. Until little William Tanner died she received $21 a week. She now gets $11. The money is being held in trust for the children until they become of age.

Mrs. Cassidy is the sister of Mr. Tanner and lives in a comfortable home at 741 Clinton avenue, which she and her husband own. Her husband, Francis Cassidy, in the navy, an engineer on the U. S. S. Maryland, which is now in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, waiting orders. He has been in the navy for twenty-two years and expects an honorable discharge on pension soon.

Helen and Lyman Tanner are attending the Albany public schools and are enjoying excellent health. Mrs. Cassidy said that little William was taken sick with pneumonia on July 22 of last year and that he died the same day, a few hours after the doctor had been called. He had previously been in good health as his brother and sister.

NEW ADIRONDACK CLUB READY TO BEGIN WORK

Prominent Folk Are Going to
Meeting To-morrow.

All sections of New York will be represented in the Adirondack Mountain Club, to be formally inaugurated at a meeting at Abercrombie & Fitch's log cabin to-morrow. The organizers also include persons from Vermont, New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania. The New York city district will have representatives from each of the five boroughs, and from Flushing, Port Chester and Yonkers.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

TWIN MOURNS TWIN AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Brother William's Death
Skeleton at Feast for Lyman Tanner, 6.

PARENTS' TRAGIC END Husband Died With Wife Caught in Tracks From Onrushing Train.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. ALBANY, April 1.—Lyman Tanner has just celebrated his sixtieth birthday. His thirty-year-old sister, Helen, who full charge of the arrangements, and several children of the neighborhood of their aunt, Mrs. Josephine Cassidy of 714 Clinton avenue, complete the guests. But there was one absentee, William Tanner, Lyman's twin brother, who died last July of pneumonia. It was the first birthday Lyman had celebrated without him.

The little fellow romped and played and ate his ice cream with the others, but frequently he was found sitting by himself. When his aunt asked him if he were ill he told her he was thinking of last year's birthday.

Lyman and Helen are the children of Mr. and Mrs. William Pittz Tanner, who met a tragic death together September 1, 1919, in Chicago, where they lived. Mrs. Tanner's foot had become caught in a railroad track. The husband frantically tried to extricate her, and falling went to his death with her under the onrushing train. The three children were left orphans. The manner of their parents' death attracted widespread attention. Wealthy people all over the country offered to adopt them, and funds were raised for their care by newspapers and organizations. Among the newspapers which helped to enlarge these funds were THE NEW YORK HERALD and THE SUN.

All of these contributions, except those to the Chicago Tribune, were turned to the Chicago Tribune, which had insurance policy and the estate of Mr. Tanner to a trust fund and placed in the hands of the Foreman Brothers Banking Company of Chicago. Mrs. Cassidy, who took charge of the children immediately after their parents' death, now receives $7 a week for each child from this fund and between $100 and $200 a year from the Chicago Tribune fund. Until little William Tanner died she received $21 a week. She now gets $11. The money is being held in trust for the children until they become of age.

Mrs. Cassidy is the sister of Mr. Tanner and lives in a comfortable home at 741 Clinton avenue, which she and her husband own. Her husband, Francis Cassidy, in the navy, an engineer on the U. S. S. Maryland, which is now in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, waiting orders. He has been in the navy for twenty-two years and expects an honorable discharge on pension soon.

Helen and Lyman Tanner are attending the Albany public schools and are enjoying excellent health. Mrs. Cassidy said that little William was taken sick with pneumonia on July 22 of last year and that he died the same day, a few hours after the doctor had been called. He had previously been in good health as his brother and sister.

NEW ADIRONDACK CLUB READY TO BEGIN WORK

Prominent Folk Are Going to
Meeting To-morrow.

All sections of New York will be represented in the Adirondack Mountain Club, to be formally inaugurated at a meeting at Abercrombie & Fitch's log cabin to-morrow. The organizers also include persons from Vermont, New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania. The New York city district will have representatives from each of the five boroughs, and from Flushing, Port Chester and Yonkers.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

Included on the organization committee are Meade C. Dobson, Rochester, chairman; W. G. Howard, Assistant Superintendent of State Forests, Albany; Raymond H. Torrey, Green Mountain Club, New York; J. Ashmun Allen, Appalachian Mountain Club, New York; H. W. Hicks, Adirondack Camp and Trail Club, Lake Placid; Frank Chase, Jr., Trapp and Trail Club, New York; Prof. H. R. Francis, State College of Forestry, Syracuse, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Association.

The club will open and develop trails in the Adirondacks, publish maps, guide books and camping advice, construct and maintain mountain camps, maintain a bureau of information, assist the organization of walking clubs, conduct walking and mountain climbing tours in the Adirondacks and endeavor to create public interest in the principles of conservation, correct mapping customs and forest preservation.

HOT FIGHT IN MAINE OVER GOVERNORSHIP

J. P. Deering and L. F. Higgins and Gov. Baxter in the Primary Battle.

Both Conventions Next Week Likely to Declare Against Present Primary Law.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. BATH, Me., April 1.—Next week will be a momentous one, politically, in Maine, for both the Republican and Democratic parties are to hold their State and district conventions, the Republicans at Bangor on Thursday and the Democrats at Augusta on Friday.

Women will participate as regularly accredited delegates for the first time since they were granted the ballot in the summer of 1920, and if the advice of the State committees is followed the delegates will be equally divided in numbers as between men and women. The Republican State Convention will be the largest in point of attendance, with approximately 1,600 delegates.

Modification of the primary law will be recommended in the platform of one or both the political parties. It is unpopular, and old line politicians have many supporters in their movement for return to the convention form of making nominations. The organizers of the primary system in the Maine newspapers during the winter.

Guy H. Sturges of Portland, for four years Attorney-General under the administration of Gov. Carl E. Milliken, is to be temporary chairman of the Republican convention, while James P. Perkins of Boothbay Harbor, former prohibition enforcement director for Maine, will be accorded a similar honor by the Democrats.

There is a three cornered fight for the Republican nomination for Governor. Astute politicians agree that the odds are with the present incumbent, Gov. Percival P. Baxter, who fell heir to the terth on January 31, 1921, only twenty-five days after Gov. Frederick H. Parkhurst had assumed the duties of office. Mr. Baxter was the President of the Senate then, and succeeded to the Governorship by virtue of his office. Since then he has formulated certain policies that he would like to see furthered by another two years' term as Governor, and so he has become a forceful and aggressive candidate.

Gov. Baxter's opponents are John Percy Deering of Saco, and Leon F. Higgins of Bangor. Mr. Deering is a member of the Senate in 1919, and just when it appeared as if Mr. Deering had the necessary votes some of them slid away and Higgins won by the slender margin of one. During the primary campaign of two years ago Mr. Deering was in a three cornered contest for Governor, when his opponents were Mr. Parkhurst, who became the nominee, and Gov. Milliken. Deering won second place and a few days after the primary election was quoted in the newspapers as stating that he would again go before the people as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in 1922. This aroused a storm of protest from the Parkhurst supporters. Mr. Deering immediately declared that he had been misquoted and that he did not intend to become a candidate until the termination of Gov. Parkhurst's term. The sudden death of Gov. Parkhurst caused a change in Mr. Deering's plans, and he declared his candidacy several months ago. He takes the view that Gov. Baxter is not entitled to use the title "Governor" in its fullest sense because he is merely an acting Governor. Mr. Deering is a lawyer and former Maine court judge. Mr. Higgins is one of the leading insurance men in eastern Maine.

Thus far no candidates are seeking the Democratic nomination for Governor, but Mayor Walter Gilpatrick of Saco and Charles W. Mullen of Bangor are prominently mentioned for the honor.

Senator Frederick Hale came up for reelection this year and is to be opposed at the primary election by Frank E. Guernsey of Dover, who resigned his Fourth district seat in Congress several years ago to seek the Senatorial nomination and was defeated. Senator Hale's supporters declare that it is useless for Guernsey to run this year, as they feel that the Dover aspirant is simply getting a line on his strength, with the idea of becoming a candidate against Senator Bert M. Fernald two years hence. Ex-Gov. Oakley C. Curtis of Portland is most prominently mentioned as Hale's Democratic opponent.

The only name thus far mentioned in Democratic circles for a Congressional nomination is James B. Perkins.

CANADA WARNED U.S. IS AFTER ASBESTOS

Manufacturers Say Fordney
Tariff Makes Easy the Entry of Raw Product.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 1.—Canadian manufacturers are strongly opposing steps under way to get for United States factories supplies of raw asbestos from Quebec Province mines. It is said an effort is under way at Washington that really means the exploitation of these mines.

Members of the Canadian Manufacturers Association are active in opposition and are taking steps to have the Quebec Legislature enact legislation which will prevent the United States, by means of the Fordney tariff, from taking Quebec's supply of raw asbestos for its own manufacturing purposes and refusing admission of Canadian manufactured asbestos by imposing a prohibitive tariff.

R. W. Gould, secretary of the Montreal branch, said the Quebec manufacturers of asbestos are much agitated over the plans of the Senate at Washington. It seemed likely that the Fordney tariff bill, which provided for a combination of straight and ad valorem duties on asbestos manufactured goods that would amount to anywhere from 52 per